

MANAGEMENTPRO™

MANAGEMENT POTENTIAL PROFILE

The MANAGEMENTPRO™ is a selection and coaching tool designed specifically to predict management potential and help organizations develop and retain top performing managers.

MANAGEMENTPRO™

- A normative selection and succession planning tool
- Provides an overview of key characteristics of successful managers
- Identifies performance management and coaching style
- Predicts management performance
- Provides coaching and development strategies
- Provides feedback on matching to mentors, peers and staff

The MANAGEMENTPRO™ was developed using advanced statistical methods and has evolved into a comprehensive assessment that includes key characteristics, attitudes and the emotional intelligence of top performing managers in a number of organizations and cultures.

The MANAGEMENTPRO™ is an objective psychometric tool that integrates science into management selection, career development and succession planning. The MANAGEMENTPRO™ assesses self management potential, motivational structure, organizational fit, people orientation, analytical orientation, self confidence, comfort with conflict, lifestyle management, emotional intelligence, and performance management.

The MANAGEMENTPRO™ predicts:

- recruiting effectiveness
- ability to retain top performers
- performance coaching style
- potential for developing top performers

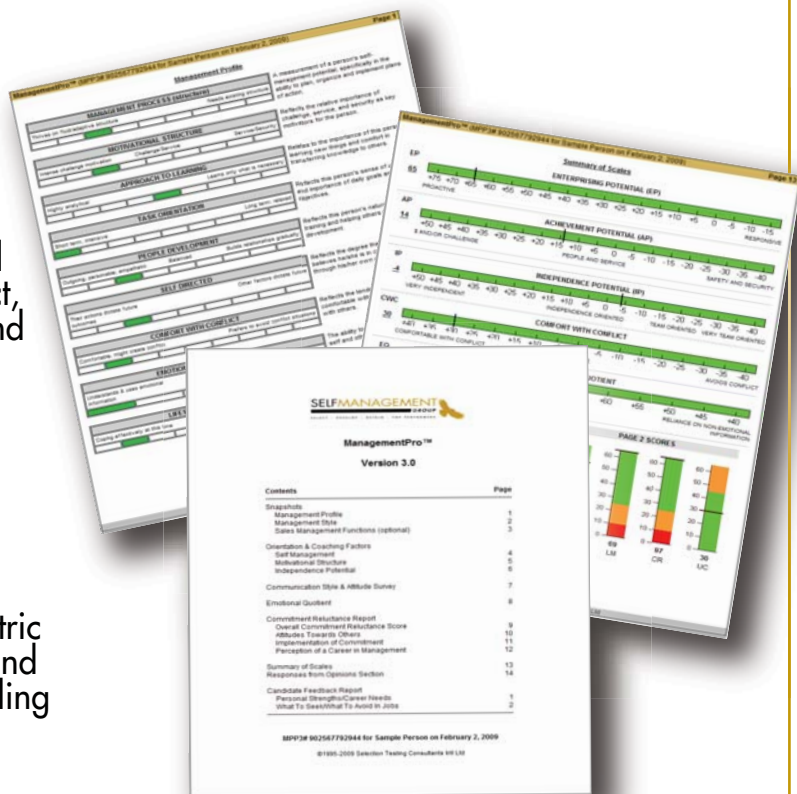

Most leading edge organizations use psychometric profiling to select and develop their managers and build more strategic management cultures. Profiling is now widely recognized as a vital tool in the selection and development of top performers, coaching them and retaining them. Many organizations are also using profiling systems as part of their succession planning. The MANAGEMENTPRO™ is the ideal tool to create the science component of the "art and science of management".

The MANAGEMENTPRO™ provides an overview of the person's management style. This includes a wide variety of competencies such as leadership style, communication style, how goals and strategies are implemented, approach to motivating others, approach to coaching and feedback style.

The MANAGEMENTPRO™ provides a detailed look at self management, motivational approach, independence and communication style issues and how they would relate to selection, team orientation, development and mentoring.

The MANAGEMENTPRO™ assesses and reports on Emotional Quotient which is very important in helping managers understand interpersonal relationships. Such issues as Self Awareness (Mood Labelling and Mood Monitoring); Self Control; Determination; Empathy and Social Judgement are integrated into an overall EQ scale.

The MANAGEMENTPRO™ assesses and reports on the key sales management issues. These include recruiting and attraction; sales training and development; sales force growth and performance management.
